CLASS PROPHECY

It is amazing how quickly time passes. Who could believe it is 1990 already and that it has been fifteen years since we left Kennedy Junior High School? It surely will be good to see our past ninth grade classmates at the 3rd Annual Interplanetary Football Game which is being held in Enfield this year. Much preparation has gone into the event and many of our former classmates plan to attend. In fact Joanne Fotos, Dwayne Withee, Susan D'Andrea, Mark Grinuk, Mary Ann Guilmette, Jerry Lovell, Jamie Descy, Jim Mager, Diana Proteau, Jeff Tracy, Laura Maruca, and Mike Donnelly were on the planning committee for this exciting event.

Advanced ticket sales were overwhelming in response to the imaginative and appealing posters, banners, bumper stickers and newspaper ads created by our gallant artists Jennifer Warmington, Grant Ellis, Janice Kocot, Jeff Nehila, Jerry Ugone, Gary Czarnecki, Debbie Hade, John Moynihan, Alane Felix, James Arrowsmith, Ralph Rossi, Sue Vosburg, and Dan Bouchard.

Since there is only one hour left before the start of the game, the hosts and hostesses Sharon Snyder, Julie Bardwell, Wayne Mathieu, Liz Boulanger, Roy Sczechowicz, Lynn Da Prato, Gary St. Martin, Sandy McGarvey, Al Trudeau Laurie Sullivan, Mark Langan and Kathy Mayo leave to go down to the gate to welcome the dignitaries and other spectators.

Many people are arriving by air. The first plane to land at Enfield Air Strip, a new airport managed by Norman Allaire, Steve Sullivan, Dana Placzek, and Mark Lazar, is the U. S. government plane which contains Barbara Roy and Louie D'Amato, presidential candidates. As they descend from the plane, with the help of stewardesses Kim Bimpson, Chris Moriarty, Joanne Bennis, and Melanie Smith, town officials Bill Manning, Superintendent of Schools, Mayor Laura Ferguson, Enfield's well-known police detective, Tom Cartelli, and town manager Mike Jordan are all on hand to greet them. Photographers Marc Thompson, Jamie Carollo, Ben Stewart, Mark Spazzarini, John Cobb, Pamela Morgan, and David Carney are recording this moment as the group begins to head for the field.

Jerry Barr, reporter has been sent down to get a story by John Fleming, the Journal Inquirer Editor. Scott Shand and Sean Martin will proof read Jerry's story before it is printed in the society section of the paper which is headed by Darcy Hillery and Marybeth Aleskwicz.

The next plane to arrive is the new supersonic 332XY piloted by Linda Lemieux and co-piloted by Linda Landry. Coming off this plane are the nominees for Teacher of the Year, Karen Mayo, Nancy Blanchard, Scott Silvia, and Lorrie Zaccaro. Just behind them are the famed interior decorators Dot Wodkowski, Jane Myers, Debbie Crochetiere, Michelle Beckett, and Patty Lemay who have just finished decorating the new Underworld Sea Lab. where they met the world famous oceanographers Lisa Morgan, Linda Barry, Dolores Callender and Cindy Morgan. Following right behind them are professional models Bruce Mackay, Brent Scoville, Dave Kelting, Sue Albetski, Karen Macaluso, and Noreen Staveski who have just finished modeling for Vogue magazine. They were modeling fashions by famous designers such as Bev Gattorna, Stu Roberts, Kelly Kates, Sue Owens, Donna Hillery and Mark Morris.

The ceremonies are beginning. Ellen Wilber, who has gone on to become a famous singer along with country and western singer, Dane Rogers, and opera star, Dawn Carney, is singing "The Star Spangled Banner" accompanied by McDonald's All-American Band under the direction of Mary Dolan. Suddenly, in the middle of "The Rocket's Red Blaze" a roar of excitement and astonishment spreads through the crowd. It is determined that due to the great navigating of Cindy Conley, a spaceship on its return flight from the moon went slightly off course from its planned landing in the Pacific Ocean and lands in the middle of the football field. Navy nurses Debbie Larson, Diane Luman, Kathy Sullivan, and Cheryl Blatchford run from the stands to assist Drs. Pat Kinney, Doug Clark and John Hryniewicz in case the astronauts Terri Bachetti, Karen Hashimoto and Carol Oliver are injured. Phil Nichols, Frank Solesky, Jim Guimond, and Allen Montminy are called over the public address system by Lory Wylot to aid in opening the door to the capsule. After the astronauts are found to be in good condition, Jay Pelletier, Paul Fitzsimmons, Brian Keller, and Ed Smith move the capsule off the field so that the game can begin.

Coaches Dave Skukowski and Grey Taylor lead their teams on to the field. The attention, though, is not on the players, but on Tom Trotta, head of the Eastern Mafia and his bodyguards, Steve McCray, Scott Strouth, Brian La Roche, and Bob Whittle. Many are curious to know why Mike Donnelly, Trotta's hit man, had made an appearance at this football game.

The commotion has settled and the game finally begins. We notice our spirited old acquaintances like Marybeth Olsen, Karen Ivanoff, Terri Cressotti, Karen Snyder and Diane Palmer. Right in the middle of the group of girls, as they usually were found 15 years ago, were Mike Deschenes, Mike Dubois and Kevin Kaman.

Before we knew it, the referee, Ken Richer, was blowing the whistle to end the first quarter. It is not long into the second quarter before many members of the Interplanetary team are being replaced because of injuries. Volunteer replacements from the grandstands are Dave Levesque, Gary Lemek, and Bill Morin. By the end of the second quarter, so many players are disabled that Jim Mager, Gary Guillerault, and Mike Rabb have to be called from the bleachers to help out. Finally, the whistle blows to announce the end of the second quarter.

The half time show is about to begin but no one seems to be interested, because they were too busy reminiscing about the old times. Licia Nasto, Candy Parker and Karen Sweeney are laughing hysterically over the time they were upset because they had to make dance decorations all by themselves the day of the kick-off dance. Dan Holland and Earl Ellis are laughing about the time Dan fed a teacher's plastic bull some shreds from the pencil sharpener.

Near the refreshment stand we see Lorraine Chaves, Karen Delguidice and Gail Rejman giggling over the time Karen dropped her tray in the lunch room on the seat and Lorraine sat in it. Standing next to them are Elaine Keyes, Terri Herter, Pam Muraszka and Cindy Turcotte. They are talking about a suspenseful basketball game.

From across the stands we can hear Kim Rittlinger talking to Tammy Howard about plays in which they had been involved. Terri O'Brien, who is now a writer of screenplays, is trying to talk Sue Chesworth into directing her latest play.

We find that not only did we miss the halftime show, but we missed the complete second half of the game. Crowds are flooding out of the grandstands. In the midst of the crowd are Sue Wright and Sundie Anderson who work at the Boston Public Library. They had driven down from Boston with Lynn Sylvester, Diana Cote, and Elaine Mowrey executives at J.C. Penney. Directly behind them are Richard Boyer, Richard Dion, Mark Flynn, Elaine Lavigne, Laura Neal, and Tim Wood who are working for the telephone company all over the United States.

As the stands empty out and everyone goes their separate ways, the clean-up committee for the event arrives to pick up the debris. Steve Owen and Brian Bletz were the first to volunteer to help out. Along with them are Joe Morris, John O'Brien, Tom Green, Mark Malone, and Keith Joslin and the dust settles once again.

Last Will and Testament

Be it remembered that we the ninth grade class of 1975 being of sound mind and body (well, sound body anyway) bequeath as follows:

We, Martha Sanders, Monique LaPointe, and Anne Lupi, leave Mr. Fletcher one Black Sabbath Paranoid album to play instead of Russian Operas

We, Dave Levesque and Diana Cote leave all the future couples of J.F.K. to cope with Mr. Barmak's "There's a time and a place for everything, and this is neither the time of the place!"

We, Cindy Turcotte, Pam Muraszka, Elaine La Vigne, and Terri Herter, leave Miss Wynglarz all our laps around the gym which she made us do for missing a lay-up or rebound at basketball practice.

We, Gail Rejman, Diana Cote, Norie Staveski, and Kim Fontana, of first period home ec. leave Mr. Paluck a glass of water and two alka seltzers

We, the football team, leave Mr. Keller a toupee for all the hair he pulled out this season.

Karen Ivanoff wills her grapevine to Sue Gates

I, Mike Wesley, leave Miss Acito peace and quiet.

We, Marybeth Olsen, Karen Ivanoff, and Kren and Kathy Mayo leave Bucky Parson and Roger Olsen to Melissa Sidway and Andrea Baer.

I, Cathy Sullivan, leave Courtney McLaughlin all my basketball techniques in hopes that someday he will make a basket.

The girls of the ninth grade leave Dana King's neatness and politeness to any or all of the eight grade boys.

We, Mr. Breault's 7th period algebra class, leave his next year's class all our A's (one is better than none)

Noreen Staveski and Karen Macaluso leave Mrs. Crand many thanks for letting them change out of algebra.

We the boys in home Ec. will our dishpan hands to any boy planning to take Bachelor's Know-how (home Ec) next year.

I, Linda Lemieux, will to Mr. Girard a tape recorder so he may record his collection of tall tales.

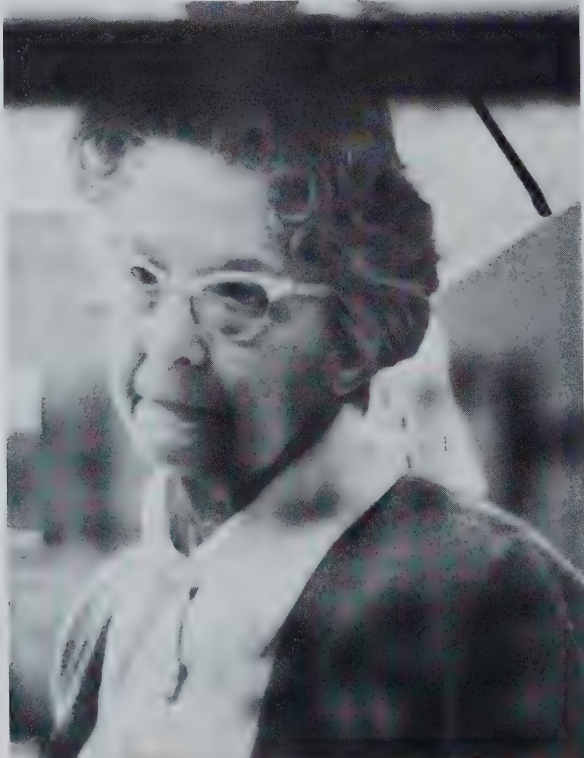

We, Mr. Milroy's seventh period biology class, leave all the slides we broke that he doesn't know about.

I, Laurie Sullivan, leave Mr. Kiner 1 free ski lesson at Mt. Tom in hopes that someday he may graduate from the bunny hill.

I, Sharon Hooper, leave Mr. Ferguson elevator shoes so he doesn't get a pain in his neck from looking up at everyone.

We, the ninth grades, leave to Mr. Robinson the book entitled 1001 New Way to Begin Morning Announcements.

We, the Varsity Soccer team, leave Mr. Clarkin our "great" record and hope he doesn't have many more.

I, Karen Macaluso, leave Randy Wylot some Shower to Shower and a bottle of Johnson's Baby Shampoo to keep him smelling Great!

I, Dave Ciemniewski, leave Mr. Citron a can of floor wax to keep his head shining.

We, John Hunter, Danny Keegan, Janice Kocot, Leah Glendee, Noreen Staveski, Karen Macaluso, and Linda Lemieux, leave Mr. Krautcuk our great ability to change seats without him noticing us.

I, Dan Gonzalez, leave Mr. Reynolds a box of Rock Candy.

Miss Ryba's fifth period study hall leaves a tape of her voice to Mr. Viola and Mr. Sampson for those days when she is absent.

Bonnie Fuller leaves her permanent and well used pass to the nurse's office to Mrs. Harschied so that she may give it to some deserving eight grader.

Bob Johnson, Denise Berry, John Mankins and Joane Moran leave their spot at the end of White House to anyone who can gather a big enough group to take up the hallway.

I, Laurie Hitchcock, leave Mrs. Fassnacht my poster, X, showing the bare facts.

We, Joanne Fotos, Jim Mager, Sandy McGarvey, Mary Ann Guilmette, Greg Taylor, and Bruce Mackay, leave all of our friends who are going to that low class school on the other side of town, _____ and we know who's number 1.

I, Rose Bucchiere, leave Mrs. Pabis someone to talk to before homeroom.

I, Lynn DaPrato, leave to my sister, Lori, all the fun and good times I had at J.F.K.

I, Cindy Turcotte, leave my basketball number (34) to Sue Reynolds.

We, Kelly Sidway and Melanie Smith, leave Jay and Melissa together for better or for worse.

We, Linda Landry and Patty Lemay, leave Mr. Sunter two, shiny, blue notebooks to sell next year at 4 cents off.

We, Bonnie Fuller, Dawn Carney, and Joanne Bennis, leave Mr. Stoll all of the notes we passed while he wasn't looking.

I, Julie Bardwell, leave any eight grader who is willing to work in Red House office the aggravation of going to Mr. Carney's room during seventh period to pick up the absentee reports.

Karen Fordyce leaves her attendance record to any ambitious eight grader.

The yearbook staff leaves to Mrs. Dumais, Mrs. Fassnacht, and Miss Nartowicz a huge bottle of Excedrin for the yearbook deadline, headache number 833.

I, Jamie Carollo, leave my Brutus haircut to Mr. Pastore.

Homeroom 14R wills to Mr. Viola laugh and be happy pills to alternate with the growl and be nasty pills he takes now.

I, Mary Dolan, leave Mr. Climan his plan book and black pen.

Mrs. Albano's fifth period class leave her all the copies of Muchas Faciltas de Mexico in hopes she'll lose them over the summer.

We, Pam Morgan, Sue Wright and Lynn Zarcaro, leave Mr. Fletcher a box of gorilla cookies.

I, Barbara Roy, leave next year's student council president a large bottle of aspirin.

I, Pam Muraszka, leave my sister Starla my basketball number 55.

We, the 74-75 school store staff, leave Mr. Sunter all the unpaid bills and broken merchandise.

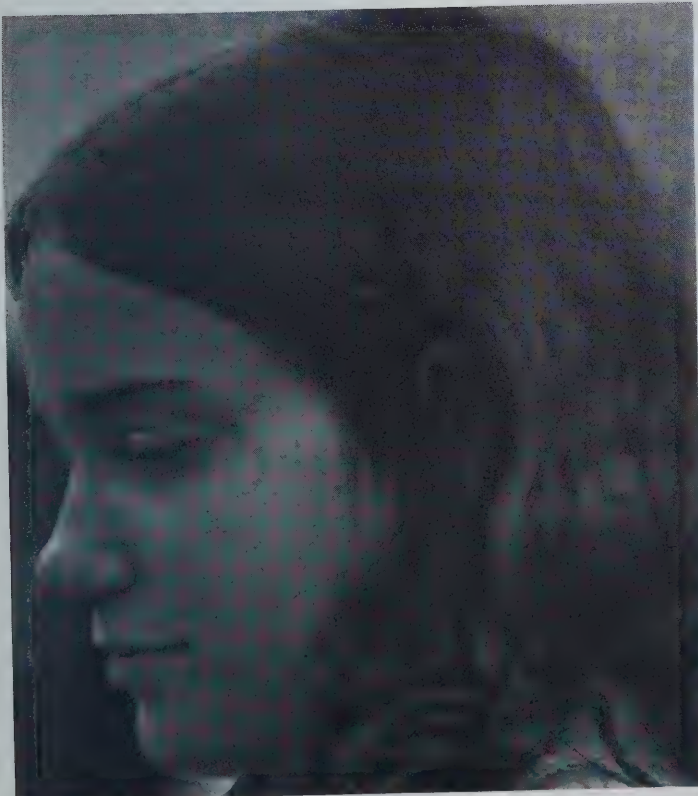

Mr. Reynold's second period science class leaves him behind.

I, Linda D'Andrea, leave Roger Olsen my nickname Sunshine.

We, Mary Ellen Clark, Gary St. Martin, Bruce Mackay, Jeff NeHila, Norman Allaire, Nancy Blanchard leave Ms. Ryba our great ability to do the Charleston.

I, Linda Landry, leave Mrs. Tower all my "Como se dice's" for all the times she made me speak in Spanish.

I, Liz Boulanger, leave Mr. Clarkin and Mr. Andy all the fun I had as a manager for the soccer and wrestling teams.

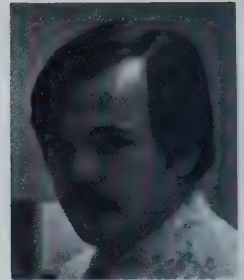

To Richie Ivanoff the ninth graders leave a book of funny jokes for every occasion.

The ninth grade boys reluctantly leave their eight grade girl friends behind.

I, Sue Van Orden, leave to Mrs. Gaj four boxes of Kleenex and a package of throat lozenges.

We, Mr. Breither's 6th period class leave to Ms. Hitchcock watch with a second hand so she doesn't have to keep borrowing Mr. Breither's.

I, Sue Latulippe, leave Mr. Ohlin a bag of Sunkist oranges.

I, Cindy Snow, leave my great math mind to my brother Mike to help him next year.

We, Cindy Braley and Joanne Bennis, leave our homeroom teacher all our dumb but true excuses for being late to school.

We, Rosa Bucchiere and Brenda Valvo, leave Mr. Robinson a headband to keep his hair down.

I, Laurie Hitchcock, leave Natalie Desroches my Cracker Jack stickers on my locker door.

I, Karen Macaluso, leave Sue Gates with the memories of a great friendship we shared at J.F.K.

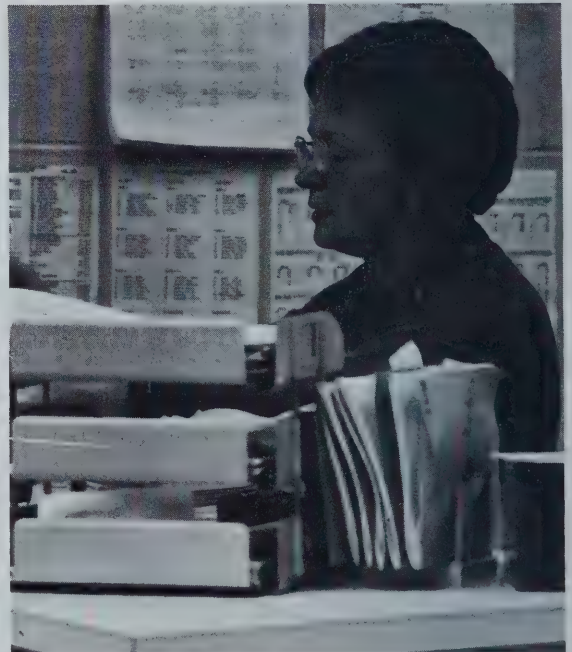

I, Traci Humphries, leave all the seventh and eighth graders lots of luck!.

We, Sue Albetski and Joanne Fotos, leave Mr. Fletcher our nomination for honorary member of the local chapter of woman's lib.

We, Jeannie McGowan and Pam Gonsorowski, leave Miss Ryba all the frustrations of getting our make-up on, the empty wine glasses, the memory of Tom Green dying too early and coming back to life when he should have died, and the name "Bunny" from our first quarter movie.

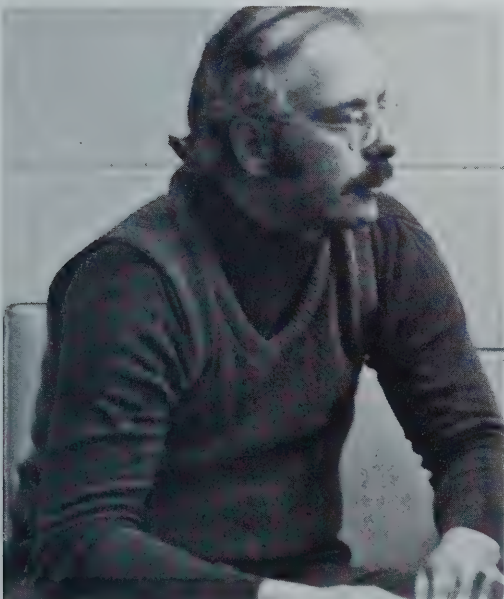

We, Sue Albetski and Gary Lemek, leave Mrs. Dumais a stronger stomach for all our gory stories in English.

We, Sharon Snyder and Patty Lemay, leave Mr. Scheck one triangle with four sides.

I, Mike Deschenes, after getting all I can from it, leave the book "I Love Myself" to Randy Wylot.

The ninth graders leave to all of the teachers who were involved in any school organization a very sincere thanks.
